

Social and Personal

Unusual Bargains in Leather Bags

Practical Gifts at Little Cost for Early Christmas Shoppers.

$2.00 Well Made Russian Seal Leather Bags, patent frame of nickel and brass; when opened forms into square shape, with coin purse fitting, nicely lined; brown, blue, green, red and black; special.

$3.50 Genuine Black Morocco and Cape Seal Bags, envelope 8 and 10-inch frames, leather strap handles, coin purse fitting, more lined; special.

$1.00

$2.38

Kaufmann & Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Burke, of Alexandria, who have recently returned from New York, are spending some time in Richmond with relatives. Mrs. Burke was formerly Miss Ida Wilson, and her wedding to Mr. Burke took place in Grace Episcopal Church here October 15. Mr. and Mrs. Burke will also be in Richmond later this month to attend the marriage of Mr. Burke's brother, Dr. John Woodfolk Burke, of Washington, to Miss Elizabeth Atkinson, of this city. The wedding will take place in Holy Trinity Church on Tuesday afternoon, November 26, at 1:30 o'clock. A reception will be given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Atkinson, 104 West Franklin Street, immediately following the ceremony.

Returns to Warrenton.

Mrs. Thomas Gaines-Smith, who has been in Richmond for several days visiting friends, has returned to her home in Warrenton. Mrs. Smith came to Richmond to attend the Parish-Tompkins wedding, which was celebrated at the bride's home on Saturday evening.

At the Woman's Club.

Miss Maria Blair talked to the members of the Woman's Club yesterday afternoon on "The Art of Simeon Solomon." Miss Blair is a woman of such broad intellect and so much cultivation and charm that her lectures at the club are always looked forward to with the greatest interest. She has a way of telling you the most delightfully intimate things about the great man or woman about which her lecture is concerned that makes you away feeling quite as if you had passed an hour with the artist. In fact, had tea with him.

Miss Blair told her audience yesterday a wonderful story about the great man, now dead, whose art has become such a passion in London. Every one of his pictures has a subject, and interwoven with that subject is a motive, making them of unending interest and a feast of pleasure. This artist who saw his vision so clearly and his genius was so real, was able to portray for mankind the vision as he saw it. His paintings are mostly done in water colors, though some are done in oil. He was born in 1841, and lived until only some eight or ten years ago. His father must have been something more than a manufacturer of leghorn hats, for his children were all, in their way, geniuses, with an imagination and mysticism in their natures that must have come down to them through many hearts that had yearned and reached out to the wide land of the unknown. A strange fate seems to hang over the family, most of Simeon Solomon's immediate family meeting with sudden and untimely ends, just at the moment when success and achievement was at hand, and he himself died in an almshouse.

In telling something of the work and pictures of this strange man, Miss Blair went into detail of his colors and meanings of a great many pictures. He painted translucent sky and twilight, wanting night and pale stars, the gray light of the coming dawn and the joy of spring, against which he throws his figures. His subjects are varied as they are interesting. Every curve in his pictures gives grace and beauty; every line of the garment enfolds the figure in majesty and mysticism. Nothing is brought in to add to his imagination, he only presents you the vision as he saw it.

There was a deep and wonderful unknown something that stirred in his nature and strove to express itself in his painting, and he was led by his own spirit and revelations were made to him by his own soul. All the art of the day, whether in music, poetry or pictures, seems to create in us a longing, and the most striking fact about this great man's pictures is the latent power in them. Some writer has said that there is gladness back of all of his sadness, and that pain is wrought in with all his pleasure.

Miss Blair gave a fascinating description of a number of the works of the artist, and read a bit of his prose work. It was a great word picture that is painted anew on the fresh canvas of each soul who hears it, and will live forever in the hearts of those who listen. There are radiant lights and shadows, and exquisitely beautiful meanings to be wrought out for one's own soul and interpretation, and the vision is painted from the mysticism and greatness of the soul of the man himself.

Just previous to the lecture, Mrs. W. G. Standard, president of the club, presented three resolutions for adoption to the members; to endorse the movement for public playgrounds for the children of the city; to endorse the movement for a public library, and also to endorse the movement to save the grounds of Richmond College for the city. The resolutions were voted upon and adopted by the club members.

Quiet Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Judith Sale, of "Piney," Essex County, to William Edgar Shaw, also of Essex, was quietly celebrated in Richmond on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's cousin, William Russell, 222 North Harris Street. Mrs. Shaw is a daughter of Mrs. Mary Sale, of Essex County, and belongs to one of the best country families in the State. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw have gone North on their wedding trip, and will later make their home in Essex.

M. L. Sauer.

The annual meeting and smoker of the Alumnae Association of the Virginia Military Institute was held last evening at the Commonwealth Club, at 10 o'clock. Decorations were in V. M. I. colors—yellow, white and red.

Atlanta Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Mary Traylor and John Rudolph Thiesen took place Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Traylor, in Atlanta. Rev. W. W. McManister, of All Saints Church, performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by relatives and a large assemblage of friends.

Miss Margaret Traylor, the bride's sister, was maid of honor, and Mr. Henry Thiesen, of Pensacola, the groom's brother, was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Marjorie Brown, Miss Otley, Miss Lulu Dean Jones, Miss Ruth Stantton, Miss Lida Brown, Miss Adeline Thomas, Miss Petrea Thiesen. The groomsmen were Messrs. Charles Thomas, Remsen King, Charles Wood, Royston Cabaniss, George W. Duncan, Campbell King, of Macon, and Gilman Drake, of Griffin.

An orchestra in the hallway played the wedding march from "Lohengrin," when the wedding party, dressed in white, entered the drawing room into the library where the ceremony was performed. The groom had as his best man Mr. Memminger. At the conclusion of the ceremony there was a reception, and an elegant supper was served. The bride and groom left on an evening train for a visit to the bride's home.

The bride's gown of white tulle and satin was made in empire style with a high collar, and was trimmed with old-rose point lace, which had been worn on her grandmother's wedding gown. Her tulle veil was caught with a half-wreath of orange blossoms which contained a cap of rose point lace. She carried orchids showered with lilies.

The maid of honor wore yellow charmeuse satin with corsage draperies of lace, and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids wore white satin and chiffon gowns and carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums showered with valley lilies.

Mrs. Traylor, the mother of the bride, wore a white brocade satin gown, trimmed in point lace and chiffon. She carried a bouquet of violets.

Mrs. Thiesen wore a black satin gown, the corsage trimmed in lace and silver. Miss Mary Gavan Traylor, of Richmond, wore a Parisian toilet of black gray charmeuse, the corsage combining with the gray, blue and rose chiffon.

For the Debutantes.

Mrs. Gilbert Weldon and Mrs. P. B. Tallaferro are giving a 5 o'clock tea on Thursday afternoon, November 14, at Gresham Club. The affair is given in honor of the debutantes of this season, who will be their guests for the afternoon.

Returned to Richmond.

Mrs. Edward Otis Rockwood has returned to Richmond for the winter and is with Mrs. Horace Wellford Jones at 209 East Franklin Street. Mrs. Rockwood's daughter, Miss Mary Franklin Norris, of Staunton, is spending a week with her, and attended the Sembrich concert last night.

Wednesday Club Rehearsal.

The Wednesday Club rehearsal will be held this week as usual in the John Marshall High School at 8:15 P. M. The rehearsal is for the orchestra and chorus, as well.

"House That Jack Built."

Any one who has the good fortune to be allowed to look in on the building of "The House That Jack Built," the opera which is bewitching so many people of all ages in Richmond now, days, comes away enthused over the personality of a woman, who, with the utmost ease and grace, can so instantaneously bring order out of chaos. Though the younger element, who are the first of the cast of "The House That Jack Built" to come under Mrs. Lake's directorship, have undergone today the fastidious discipline, spirit and artistic charm of a trained chorus. The looker-on comes away also with his or her mind, as it may be, full of haunting melodies, and is as eager as the children to get back to the next rehearsal.

The rehearsals for grown girls will begin Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the ball room of the Richmond Hotel. The men are not yet wanted. Mrs. Lake's method being to summon none until she is ready to begin their work. This thorough business system makes one realize the possibility of putting on the stage a production as "The House That Jack Built," in which 250 people take part. The performances are now but ten days off, the dates being Friday and Saturday, November 22-23. Among those who will be in the cast are: Mesdames Lewis Bosher, Godwin Boykin, Peilman Blackford, John Harrison, Backus, Lathrop, Pickett, Lathrop, Frank McCarthy, Herbert Mann, Leslie Reed, Hugh Rose, Brydon Tennant, Ernest Weisger, McDonald Wellford, Mrs. Randolph Williams, and others.

Charity Card Party.

An interesting event of November 25 will be the big card tournament given by the Girls Club, auxiliary to the Belle Bryan Day Nursery. It will take place at 4 o'clock in the palm garden of the Jefferson Hotel, and society will be out in full force to attend it. A number of tables have already been reserved, and an attractive prize will be given for the highest scores.

Prominent Wedding.

Says a recent exchange from Mobile, Ala.: "One of the important weddings will be that of Miss Rosemond Rutherford Hobbs, of the Rutherford Rutherford Hobbs. The wedding will take place in Christ Episcopal Church this morning at 6 o'clock. Immediately after which the couple will leave for New Orleans and Havana. The only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Rutherford Hobbs, she is a charming and beautiful young woman. Miss Hobbs has been a social favorite ever since her debut, serving as maid to the carnival queen in 1911. She will be married to her mother's wedding dress of ivory satin and chintilly lace. The marriage will unite two prominent families of the South."

Old Dominion Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry A. Atkinson, 311 East Main Street, this afternoon at 4 o'clock. All members of the organization are urged to be present.

Anderson-Diacon.

The marriage of Miss Viola Augusta Diacon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Diacon, to William Bright Anderson, son of the late John T. and Lucy Bowles Anderson, will be celebrated this evening at 8:45 o'clock at the Union Station Methodist Episcopal Church. The Rev. F. B. McSparran, brother-in-law of the bride, assisted by the Rev. W. H. Edwards, pastor of the church, will perform the ceremony.

Mrs. Francis B. McSparran will be the sister's matron of honor and Miss Alice Edith Wilson, of the Lawrence Wilson, of North Carolina, will be bridesmaids. Lena Allen and Thelma Brauer will be the ribbon girls and John C. Goode will act as the groom's best man. The ushers include Messrs. W. L. Carmichael, John T. Murdock, Edwin S. Bore, Paul Atkinson, Robert M. Halliway and Dr. Jacob Keck. J. J. Landsey will be master of ceremonies.

Meetings This Afternoon.

The Women's Association of St. Paul's Church will meet this afternoon in the Sunday school room of the church. Professor R. E. Gaines, of Richmond College, will address the association on the subject of "The Spirit of the Church."

Williams Memorial Circle of King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. J. S. Latham, at 13 North Fifth Street, this afternoon at 4 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

The Women's College Alumnae Association will meet in the home of Mrs. J. C. Epps, 2501 Grove Avenue, this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Miss Florence Peple will be the speaker on this occasion, and her subject will be "Paris." All members are cordially invited to be present.

Card Tournament.

The November card tournament will take place on Friday evening of this week at 8:15 o'clock at the parlors of the Woman's Club. The usual rules concerning the registering of tables and gentlemen partners will be followed.

In and Out of Town.

Mrs. Robert G. Cabell has gone to New York City, where she will spend the next two weeks.

Miss Marie Reid, of Norfolk, who has been spending the last few months in Birmingham, is now the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Marshall here, with whom she will spend the winter.

Olin M. Richardson has returned to the city, after a short stay in Fredericksburg.

Mrs. Waldorf Astor, who sailed last week with her husband for England, will entertain a large house party of American friends at Cliveden, their estate near London.

Garth-Gentry.

Crozet, Va., November 11.—A pretty wedding was solemnized at the Hillsboro Baptist Church, Yancey Mills, on Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, when Miss Beatrice Virginia Gentry, the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gentry, became the bride of William Anderson Garth, Jr., of Gilbert. The church was decorated in green and white. The bride entered the church with her maid of honor, Miss Jamie Wilhoit, her first cousin. The groom came to the altar with his best man, Mr. Albert Tucker Gentry, brother of the bride. Those from a distance who witnessed the marriage were William A. Garth, father of the groom; W. Claude Douglas, uncle of the bride; Gates Garth and two daughters, from Ivy; Misses Christine and Arleen Handy, of Barboursville; Mr. W. M. Jones, Crofton, and Mrs. E. Q. Wilhoit, Ivy.

After the marriage the bridal party drove to Charlottesville, where they took the fast train for the Southern Railroad for their future home at Silver Hill, N. C., where the groom is a prosperous young railroad contractor.

MINISTER RESIGNS.

Rev. J. H. Henderlite, of Fredericksburg, Accepts Call to North Carolina.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Fredericksburg, Va., November 11.—Rev. J. H. Henderlite, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, has announced to his congregation that he has decided to accept the call recently extended to him to become pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Gastonia, N. C. A congregational meeting of the church will be held next Sunday to take formal action on the resignation. The East Hanover Presbyterian will meet in two weeks, and it is expected that the relations between Rev. Mr. Henderlite and the Presbyterian Church of this city, will be dissolved.

Rev. Mr. Allen, rector of Copie Parish in Westmoreland County, has tendered his resignation of that charge. The vestry of Old Yeeconomic Church, of which Rev. Mr. Allen had charge, has recently made some repairs to the walls, which had begun to crack, and in excavating in one corner a skull of a child was unearthed. The wall was erected over 250 years ago.

The Baptist churches of Irvington and Weems, in Lancaster County, have tendered a call to Rev. H. J. Goodwin, of Luray.

Miss Sarah Fry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fry, of Madison County, has gone to Brazil, where she will charge a two-year course at a normal school. She will make her home with her sister, Mrs. C. C. Knight, who has been in Brazil several years.

The large barn belonging to R. B. Carr, in Westmoreland County, was burned a few days ago, together with contents, consisting of a large quantity of provisions and a number of agricultural implements. Loss, $2,000.

Aberrantly-Lewis.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Fredericksburg, Va., November 11.—Charles H. Aberrantly, of Gloucester County, and Miss Sarah Columbia Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lewis, of Madison County, were married a few days ago at the Matthews Methodist parsonage. Rev. T. W. Ogden performed the ceremony.

THALHIMERS

Men's 75c Percalé

Shirts, Cut Fall, 59c

Men's $1.50 Heavy Winter Weight Oxford Shirts; sale 89c

Men's $1.50 Flannellette Pajamas, sale price $1.25

Report of Horror Recalls Memories of Ill-Fated King of Serbia.

BY LA MARQUE DE FONTENAY.

MEMORIES of the ill-fated King of Serbia are recalled by the news that the Sixth and Seventh Regiments of Serbian Infantry have been almost entirely swept out of existence by the Turkish fire in the battle of Ristovatz, the Sixth in particular having lost all of its officers and nearly all its men. For it was these two regiments which on the night of June 11, 1903, surrounded the royal palace at Belgrade and kept watch while their officers butchered the King and Queen Draga. The Sixth Regiment had until then borne the name of King Charles of Rumania, who was its honorary colonel. But as soon as he learned of the assassination of King Alexander and the assumed various officers of the corps upon whom he had bestowed Rumanian orders of knighthood to be notified that these decorations had been forfeited.

Serving in the ranks of a Serbian cavalry regiment, as an ordinary trooper, is Alexis Karageorgievitch, 3 years old, the son of King Peter, but whom the latter has hitherto refused to recognize as a member of the reigning family, to whom he declined to accord any official place, title or even allowance, and who has hitherto been made to feel by the Serbian crown and government that his room was preferred to his company.

As soon as ever Peter was elevated to the throne, Alexis arrived at Belgrade from Paris to demand recognition as a prince of the blood and an adequate civil list. But the King absolutely declined to comply with his cousin's pretensions and in order to clearly demonstrate that he did not propose to recognize Alexis as a prince, ordered him to be described as "Mr. Karageorgievitch, in a mention made in the Official Gazette of his having been accorded an audience by His Majesty.

Alexis is the "Prince" Karageorgievitch who came to this country some years ago in the vain hope of securing the hand of the daughter of one of the leading financiers of the United States, and whom Peter's Jews were said to have renounced his allegiance to the King, and that he resumed his rights as a pretender to the crown, on the ground that he is the senior representative of the senior branch of the Karageorgievitch family.

The founder of the dynasty, old Black Karageorgievitch, a swineherd, had two sons. The eldest, Alexis, died at two years of age, leaving a two-year-old son, the father of the present Alexis. The second son, Alexander, was a few years after his brother's death, headed the revolution which drove the Karageorgievitchs from the throne and was proclaimed ruler of Serbia and recognized as such by the Porte and the other powers. King Peter is the eldest surviving son of this Alexander Karageorgievitch, and the Serbians hold that the sixteen years' reign of the latter had the effect of ending his son's stronger claims to the Serbian crown than the grand son of his elder brother.

Alexis Karageorgievitch has for some years past been earning a somewhat precarious livelihood in Paris by writing for the press, by designing menu cards and by painting fans. He is infinitely more respectable than his unenviable brother, Prince Alexander, and the only thing against him is his chronic impecuniosity and the fact that he is occasionally compelled to resort to in order to raise the financial wind.

From what a height the pride of Turkey has been humbled during the last two weeks, as compared with earlier times, may be gathered from the tenor of the declaration of the Sultan, Mohammed IV., issued against the Emperor Leopold I. of Germany in 1862. "By the grace of the God reigning in Heaven, do we, Mola Mohammed, the glorious and all-powerful Emperor of Babylonia and of Judea, of the Orient and of the Occident, King of all Kings, Great King of the Holy Arabia and Mauretania, victor-crowned King of Jerusalem, Lord of the Sepulchre of the crucified son of the Unbelievers, do hereby pledge our most sacred word to thee, Caesar of Rome, that we are about to sweep through thy dominions in war, with an army of 1,300,000 warriors, and no less than thirteen kinds in our train; that we shall without grace or mercy trample under our horses' feet and put you to the fire and sword. Above all, we command thee that thou shalt await us in thy capital of Vienna, where we will cut off thy head. We will destroy thee and all thy adherents, and cause to disappear from the face of the earth every man, woman and child that is a Christian (dog of a Christian). Both great and small will be subjected to the most cruel tortures and to the most shameful deaths; and we propose to drive both thee and thy entire people from the face of the earth. Given in the fortieth year of our life and in the twenty-sixth year of our reign."

Sultan Mohammed IV. fulfilled his threat in so far as it concerned sweeping through the Hapsburg empire to the very gates of Vienna, putting to fire and sword everybody and everything encountered in his advance. But Vienna proved a harder nut for him to crack than he expected, and after a siege of some months he was defeated and compelled to retire by an army under John Sobieski, King of Poland.

To-day Sultan Mohammed V. has been appealing in vain to Vienna and to Emperor Francis Joseph, the successor of Leopold I. on the throne of the Hapsburgs, for mediation with the victorious Balkan powers and for the preservation of the remnants of Ottoman sovereignty in Europe.

A reader, referring to my mention in these letters the other day of Jules Grevy, third of the series of Presidents of the present republic of France, writes to request me to determine a controversy in which he has become involved concerning the manner in which Grevy quitted his high office. He had been re-elected to the chief magistracy for another term of seven years in December, 1895, without opposition, in the closing days of the son-in-law, Daniel Wilson, became involved in most disgraceful scandals relating to the sale of the Legion of Honor to unworthy candidates and was shown to have turned to dishonest and profitable account the fact that both he and his wife made their home with his father in the Palace of the Elysee. Grevy was consequently requested quietly by the Cabinet, backed up by the leaders of the various parliamentary parties, to either get rid of his son-in-law and to close his doors to him or else to resign. Grevy at first declined to do either, taking the ground that no one had the power to make such a demand upon him. Thereupon, in the closing days of November, 1897, both the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies voted by overwhelming majorities orders of the day to the effect that they were awaiting a message from him resigning the presidency.

In the face of this attitude on the part of the government, and of popular sentiment as voiced by the press, Grevy addressed to "Paris" a message containing his resignation and in which he declared: "My duty and my right would be to resist. But in view of the present circumstances" (Boulangerie was then rampant) "a conflict between the executive and the legislature might result in consequences which I do not care to see, and which I must leave to those who have forced my resignation upon me the responsibility of establishing so dangerous a precedent."

There was no actual impeachment, nor was his own honesty impugned. But the fact of his having been so blinded by paternal affection as to allow his daughter's husband to make the Palace of the Elysee the headquarters of a series of scandalous transactions culminating in scandalous revelations of the life of Cabinet and Parliament.

Wilson's confederates were convicted and sentenced to terms of penal servitude. He himself was arrested, indicted and liberated on bail. But his case was never brought to trial.

REGIMENTS SWEPT OUT OF EXISTENCE

grade from Paris to demand recognition as a prince of the blood and an adequate civil list. But the King absolutely declined to comply with his cousin's pretensions and in order to clearly demonstrate that he did not propose to recognize Alexis as a prince, ordered him to be described as "Mr. Karageorgievitch, in a mention made in the Official Gazette of his having been accorded an audience by His Majesty.

Alexis is the "Prince" Karageorgievitch who came to this country some years ago in the vain hope of securing the hand of the daughter of one of the leading financiers of the United States, and whom Peter's Jews were said to have renounced his allegiance to the King, and that he resumed his rights as a pretender to the crown, on the ground that he is the senior representative of the senior branch of the Karageorgievitch family.

The founder of the dynasty, old Black Karageorgievitch, a swineherd, had two sons. The eldest, Alexis, died at two years of age, leaving a two-year-old son, the father of the present Alexis. The second son, Alexander, was a few years after his brother's death, headed the revolution which drove the Karageorgievitchs from the throne and was proclaimed ruler of Serbia and recognized as such by the Porte and the other powers. King Peter is the eldest surviving son of this Alexander Karageorgievitch, and the Serbians hold that the sixteen years' reign of the latter had the effect of ending his son's stronger claims to the Serbian crown than the grand son of his elder brother.

Alexis Karageorgievitch has for some years past been earning a somewhat precarious livelihood in Paris by writing for the press, by designing menu cards and by painting fans. He is infinitely more respectable than his unenviable brother, Prince Alexander, and the only thing against him is his chronic impecuniosity and the fact that he is occasionally compelled to resort to in order to raise the financial wind.

From what a height the pride of Turkey has been humbled during the last two weeks, as compared with earlier times, may be gathered from the tenor of the declaration of the Sultan, Mohammed IV., issued against the Emperor Leopold I. of Germany in 1862. "By the grace of the God reigning in Heaven, do we, Mola Mohammed, the glorious and all-powerful Emperor of Babylonia and of Judea, of the Orient and of the Occident, King of all Kings, Great King of the Holy Arabia and Mauretania, victor-crowned King of Jerusalem, Lord of the Sepulchre of the crucified son of the Unbelievers, do hereby pledge our most sacred word to thee, Caesar of Rome, that we are about to sweep through thy dominions in war, with an army of 1,300,000 warriors, and no less than thirteen kinds in our train; that we shall without grace or mercy trample under our horses' feet and put you to the fire and sword. Above all, we command thee that thou shalt await us in thy capital of Vienna, where we will cut off thy head. We will destroy thee and all thy adherents, and cause to disappear from the face of the earth every man, woman and child that is a Christian (dog of a Christian). Both great and small will be subjected to the most cruel tortures and to the most shameful deaths; and we propose to drive both thee and thy entire people from the face of the earth. Given in the fortieth year of our life and in the twenty-sixth year of our reign."

Sultan Mohammed IV. fulfilled his threat in so far as it concerned sweeping through the Hapsburg empire to the very gates of Vienna, putting to fire and sword everybody and everything encountered in his advance. But Vienna proved a harder nut for him to crack than he expected, and after a siege of some months he was defeated and compelled to retire by an army under John Sobieski, King of Poland.

To-day Sultan Mohammed V. has been appealing in vain to Vienna and to Emperor Francis Joseph, the successor of Leopold I. on the throne of the Hapsburgs, for mediation with the victorious Balkan powers and for the preservation of the remnants of Ottoman sovereignty in Europe.

A reader, referring to my mention in these letters the other day of Jules Grevy, third of the series of Presidents of the present republic of France, writes to request me to determine a controversy in which he has become involved concerning the manner in which Grevy quitted his high office. He had been re-elected to the chief magistracy for another term of seven years in December, 1895, without opposition, in the closing days of the son-in-law, Daniel Wilson, became involved in most disgraceful scandals relating to the sale of the Legion of Honor to unworthy candidates and was shown to have turned to dishonest and profitable account the fact that both he and his wife made their home with his father in the Palace of the Elysee. Grevy was consequently requested quietly by the Cabinet, backed up by the leaders of the various parliamentary parties, to either get rid of his son-in-law and to close his doors to him or else to resign. Grevy at first declined to do either, taking the ground that no one had the power to make such a demand upon him. Thereupon, in the closing days of November, 1897, both the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies voted by overwhelming majorities orders of the day to the effect that they were awaiting a message from him resigning the presidency.

In the face of this attitude on the part of the government, and of popular sentiment as voiced by the press, Grevy addressed to "Paris" a message containing his resignation and in which he declared: "My duty and my right would be to resist. But in view of the present circumstances" (Boulangerie was then rampant) "a conflict between the executive and the legislature might result in consequences which I do not care to see, and which I must leave to those who have forced my resignation upon me the responsibility of establishing so dangerous a precedent."

There was no actual impeachment, nor was his own honesty impugned. But the fact of his having been so blinded by paternal affection as to allow his daughter's husband to make the Palace of the Elysee the headquarters of a series of scandalous transactions culminating in scandalous revelations of the life of Cabinet and Parliament.

Wilson's confederates were convicted and sentenced to terms of penal servitude. He himself was arrested, indicted and liberated on bail. But his case was never brought to trial.

Magical Effect of New Face Peeler

(Woman's National Journal)

To maintain a clear, rosy, youthful complexion, there's nothing so simple to use, and yet so effective as ordinary mercurized wax, which you can get at any drug store. Just apply the wax at night as you would cold cream; in the morning wash it off with warm water. If you've never tried it you can't imagine the magical effect of this harmless home treatment. The mercurized wax causes the worn-out, scaly skin to come off in minute particles, a little at a time, and soon you have entirely shed the offensive cuticle. The fresh young under skin now in evidence is so healthy and girlish looking, so free from any appearance of artificiality, you wonder why you had not heard of this marvelous complexion-renewing secret long ago.

To get rid of your wrinkles, here's a formula that is wonderfully effective: 1-oz. powdered salicylate dissolved in 1-2 oz. witch hazel. Bathe the face in this and you will be simply astonished at the results, even after the first trial. (Advertisement.)

Wedding Flowers

Correct, Artistic in Arrangement—and Guaranteed Freshness—At Moderate Prices—At Madison 630

HAMMOND FLORIST

Better School Shoes for the Money—at Seymour Cycle

ELVEN W. BROAD

Save These Labels

Daisy

LOAF ABC

$8.00 24-pc. Tea Set

AMERICAN BREAD AND BAKING CO., 6 East Leigh Street.

Dress Just Co.

301 East Broad Street.

Special displays of new fall styles in Women's Apparel.

REINACH, Inc.

107 E. BROAD STREET

MILLINERY—Women's and Misses' Outer Apparel.

The Velvet Kind

—and Creamy—

FURRY ICE CREAM CORP., MANAGER 1912.

The Popularity

Of the Schwarzschild store is due to the elegance of our stocks and the courteous service always to be had here.

SCHWARZSCHILD BROS.,

Richmond's Leading Jewelers, Second and Broad Sts.

for he had availed himself of his position and power at the Elysee to obtain from the department for the Interior the "doctors," that is to say, the police records of many of the most important statements of the Third Republic; records which had been largely compiled by means of reports of detectives employed to shadow them. His threats to make public these records created so much alarm and were considered as constituting a great danger to the republic, that he was granted immunity, in consideration of his returning to the Department of the Interior all these compromising documents.

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Company.)

Invitations Issued.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Fredericksburg, Va., November 11.—Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Muse, of Gloucester County, have issued cards for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Montague Muse, to Thomas H. Howie, the ceremony to take place Thursday, November 14, at Providence Baptist Church, in Gloucester County.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Ellis Woolfolk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Woolfolk, of Orange County, to Dr. Henry Yager, the ceremony to take place Wednesday, November 20, at 10 o'clock, at Blue Run Baptist Church, at Somerset, Orange County.

Demand a Harmless Antiseptic

When you purchase an antiseptic for your own use, make sure that it contains no poisons. The safest way is to do as thousands of other women do—simply specify Tyree's Antiseptic Powder.

Physicians everywhere advise Tyree's, because it is not only harmless, but is positive in its results. Its use covers a wide range, and it can be used either dry or diluted in water. Unrivaled as a preventive of disease and unexcelled as a douche. A 25-cent package makes two gallons standard solution. Sold by all druggists. Send for booklet and free sample.

J. S. Tyree, Chemist, Washington, D. C.

GEO. W. ANDERSON & SONS

215 E. Broad Street.

Lace Curtains And Portieres

All the Novelties,

Scrim, Cluny, Irish Point, Marie Antoinette, Tambooured. Every kind to select from.

Wilton and Axminster Rugs

New Patterns Added to the Line.

ANDERSON'S CARPET HOUSE

We employ registered pharmacists that do nothing else but fill prescriptions at

Tragle's

A Hamilton Watch

Is the best timepiece you can buy—$15.00 up.

Smith & Webster

Time Specialists, 612 E. Main